INTIMATION MADE THAT THIS COUNTRY WILL BE IN ROLE OF PACIFIER

AGITATION TO BE FRUITFUL?

Evident Pessimism of London Fails to Dampen Ardor of Peace Advocates at Washington

(By Charles P. Stewart, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Late fall or early winter may see an American move to restore peace in Europe.

This intimation was from a high official source today.

Pope Benedict's appeal to President Wilson to use his good offices with Europe's belligerents would not bear fruit immediately, it was stated, but with the lull in fighting expected upon winter's approach it was understood on good authority that the president thinks the time may be ripe for definite action.

The chief executive will not reply to the pope's peace plea, it was stated authoritatively today, the explanation being given that his holiness' communication requires no answer or even an acknowledgment, having been delivered in person by Cardinal Gibbons, to whom the president gave the necessary acknowledgment.

Unless the vatican or Cardinal Gibbons makes public the papal communication, it was said it will not be given out here.

Despite pessimistic expressions from London, it was the official view here that, a general peace discussion having been started, there is good reason to believe the agitation will continue until something tangible is developed upon which President Wilson can found another overture to the fighting countries.

Some international experts thought there was a fair chance that American negotiations with the British concerning the order in council would lead to an opportunity for a fresh offer of mediation.

SUBMARINES WILL BE ABLE TO CROSS OCEAN UNAIDED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Four submarines of the new H type, capable of crossing the Atlantic under their own power without replenishing supplies, are being built by the Fore River Construction company, Quincy, Mass., for the United States, Secretary Daniels said today.

The same company, he added, is at work on the Schley, America's largest submarine.

ANDERSON LEADS AT 250-MILE MARK

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 4.— De Palma dropped out of the 500 mile race here at 3 o'clock, because of over-oiling of his magneto. At 2:50 miles Anderson, Cooper and O'Donnell were in first, second and third places, respectively.

At the end of the thirty miles Burman went out for a broken piston, and coasting to a safe position, left the race.

A broken oil pump put Resta out of the race at the end of 102 miles. Henning went out of the race just before Resta quit and Ralph Mulford was flagged a few moments later by the referee who objected to Mulford driving with a car frame nearly broken in twain.

Cooper stopped at the 170th mile to permit Johnny Aitken to take his wheel, and Gil Anderson flashed back into first place.

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 4.—A resolution was passed by the board of normal regents this morning directing the contractor for the Eau Claire normal school to comply with the state law—eight hours—on the new building.

Edward Ragaed At Park Concert Until The Break

"E-e-ev'rybody ra-a-g with me," syncopated the West Salem band at Riverside park last night.

And Edward Larsen couldn't resist the musical invitation. Edward began to rag, to the great scandal of some thousands of respectable citizens who were listening with great interest to the music.

The scandal increased when Edward's terpsichorean efforts strained and broke the one suspender which held up his trousers. Fortunately it was dusk.

A policeman helped Edward hold 'em up until they got to central station.

PHILIPP ADDRESS SUGGESTS HE MAY SEEK BOB'S TOGA

Tomah Politicians See in Utterances of Governor at Fair Indication of Senatorial Bug

ESCH MAKES SPLENDID ADDRESS

The Congressman Largely Avoids Politics and Wins Hearers with Talk About Wisconsin

TOMAH, Wis., Sept. 4.—The manner in which he paid his respects to Senator Paul Husting and "the long-haired gentleman" (Senator La Follette) in an address at the fair grounds here late yesterday, is taken by many local political leaders to indicate that Governor Emanuel L. Philipp proposes to enter the primary in the United States senatorial race, against La Follette, next fall.

The governor, who last week addressed patrons of the county fair at Galesville, wished it understood that he was not making such a "tour of the county fairs" as that in which Senator La Follette provoked stalwart criticism.

"Last year I visited you upon my own invitation," said the governor. "Today I am here upon your invitation, as your guest."

The governor had been invited by the mayor and the fair board, the occasion being "Governor's day."

Wallops Opponents.

The governor complimented the fair, praised the agricultural development of the section, expressed supreme satisfaction that he was a citizen of the state and of the only world power now enjoying peace.

In the conclusion of his address, which was made from Mr. Ira Stetsman's automobile, in front of the grand stand where the sun was so insufferable that the executive coat was laid aside, Governor Philipp reviewed his administration, retailing his achievements and castigating those who hindered or prevented some legislation he sought.

Esch Wins Applause

Following the governor's address, Hon. John J. Esch, fresh from travels in many other states, paid a splendid tribute to Wisconsin. He supported his statements with comparative facts and figures and won hearty applause. Mr. Esch did not indulge in politics further than to attribute much of Wisconsin's success to state legislation and university work of the past decade, to balance which he complimented the present administration upon improvements which he believed were afforded by the new agricultural law.

RHINELANDER MAY GET NORMAL SCHOOL

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 4.—Although no definite action was taken by the state board of normal regents this morning, it was strongly intimated that Rhinelander would be designated as the location for the next state normal school. Final action will be taken before adjournment this afternoon.

ENGLAND CANNOT ACCEPT PRESENT PEACE CONDITIONS

Sir Edward Grey Intimates Nation Would Be Made Politically and Financially Tributary

PRESS INDORSES THE STAND

All Agree Menace of "Prussian Militarism" Must Be Removed Before Peace Is Possible

LONDON, Sept. 4.—That Great Britain cannot accept the peace overtures of Germany is the statement Sir Edward Grey, British minister of fareign affairs. In response to the peace terms of Germany, which called for the payment of a heavy indemnity by Great Britain and France in compensation for the evacuation of Belgium and Northern France, Sir Edward said:

"A country to commit a great crime and then to be paid for it would be fatal to the fundamental principles of civilization and international law.

"Payment by Great Britain and France of an enormous indemnity to Germany would put them in the position of being financially tributary to Germany and would prevent them from providing for their national defense, and this in turn would make them politically tributary to Germany. Every Englishman would sooner die than accept German dictation in Europe.

"The very worst and most disastrous war would be preferable to such a peace."

Press With Government

The London press today almost without exception indorsed the attitude of the government that there must be no peace with Germany until the menace of "Prussian Militarism" is removed.

The German intimation as to possible peace terms, made exclusively to the United Press at Washington on Thursday, elicited lengthy editorial comments from the morning papers. They were unanimous in scouting the idea of an early peace and treated with greatest scorn the German statement that freedom of the seas, freedom for the Poles and equal rights for the Jews were subjects upon which peace discussions must turn.

"This statement from the German embassy is comic in its disingenuous futility," said the Daily Express. "Before the war the seas were free for all the shipping of the world, and this new Teutonic demand for freedom merely means that Great Britain is to surrender the power that comes from its predominant navy and to rob itself of its principal weapon, both of offense and defense.

"Russia has pledged herself definitely to the reconstruction of an autonomous Poland, but this does not imply a Poland that is a mere appanage of the German empire.

German Sincerity Questioned

"The impuden claim that Germany is fighting for the freedom of the Jews is evidently intended to please the American Jewish people. Germany's patronage of the Jews made the more ridiculous when it is remembered that until the outbreak of the war no Jew was allowed to be an officer in the German army."

The Daily Chronicle had the following to say: "Count Von Bernstorff is following up his somewhat illusory offer to the United States in the submarine controversy by making a fresh plunge into peace talk. The manifesto is a comewhat clumsy attempt to exhibit Germany in the light of a universal emancipator. She is to emancipate Poland, emancipate the Jews and emancipate the sea.

"Nothing is said, of course, about emancipating Europe from the menace of her own blood thirsty aggression, nor about the evacuation and compensation of Belgium. Nor is the United States reminded of Dr. Helfrich's recent program according to which Germany is to hold her temporary conquests to ransom in order to extort colossal indemnities from peoples whom she has so deeply wronged.

"Evidently the sole object of the manifesto is to provide a text for pro-German propagandists whose cue it will now be to represent that the allies, as wicked war mongers, are wantonly prolonging the conflict which pasific Germany is magnonimously willing to end. But we doubt whether anybody else will be taken in. The world is not unaware of special interests which Germany has in bringing about peace while her victories are fresh and before the allies superior endurance has worked her down."

BORDER TROUBLE BECOMES BATTLE OF RIVAL SOLDIERS

Two Pitched Battles Take Place Today Between Uniformed Men Along Rio Grande

SEVEN MEXICANS ARE KILLED

Body of Rangers Are Fired on from Across Border by Carranzista Troops

AVIATORS ARE FIRED UPON

One Hundred Shots Are Fired Over Brownsville from Across Border at Aeroplane

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Sept. 4.—The border situation is rapidly changing from unorganized banditry to an affair between uniformed soldiers of the United States and Mexico. Pitched battles between troops of the two nations occurred twice today at different points along the Rio Grande. While there were no casualties on the American side, at least seven Mexican soldiers were killed.

Twelve Mexicans who crossed the river at daylight this morning fired on a detachment of soldiers near Madera, in Hidalgo county. Seven of the invaders were killed and the rest escaped. All the dead wore Carranzista uniforms

At about the same time a body of Rangers were fired upon from across the Rio Grande by Carranzista troops.

The clashes with Mexicans are expected to increase as the river is falling rapidly and is fordable in many places, which have been impassible for several days.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Sept. 4.—Lieutenants Morrows and Jones in a United States army aeroplane flying over Brownsville yesterday were fired on by Mexicans from the Mexican side of the Rio Grande. Nearly 100 shots were fired but none hit the mark.

Dispatches from Loredo say that Carranzista soldiers are beating the chaparral around Palo Blanco today for bandits who attempted late yesterday to wreck the passenger train bound from Monterey to Laredo. A bomb placed on the track exploded and tore away part of the locomotive's fire box.

"Dead or Alive"

The sinister "dead or alive' order is hanging over the heads of the half hundred Mexicans implicated in the murder and alleged torture of two Americans late Thursday. And with four hundred United States soldiers and nearly that number of county officers and armed citizens hunting them down it was regarded as certain today that the entire band would be either captured or annihilated.

The bandits, surrounded by soldiers in the brush near Los Fresnos and thought to have been the main band, later proved to be only a small detachment of the larger body which has split up into several small squads, better to elude pursuers. Three of this band, including one woman, were killed, making a total of six bandits killed since the murder of Earl Donaldson and J. S. Smith, Americans.

Information continues to reach here of bands of various sizes crossing the border at various points. The first excitement has died down and citizens are calmly and systematically preparing to resist invasion. Guards have been stationed around several of the towns and many ranches have been prepared for veritable sieges.

More Cross River

Lieutenant Malloy of the third cavalry, stationed at Mission, reported that twelve armed men crossed the Rio Grande and after looting the stores at Oja De Agua stole four horses. The citizens were too frightened to offer resistance. Patrols later trailed the bandits to a point on the river about three miles above Hidalgo, just in time to see the bandits nearing the Mexican side in boats.

Bandits Surprised

A detachment of the Twelfth cavalry surprised four bandits twelve miles north of here early today, killing one and capturing the others. The prisoners were taken to San Benito.

Many ranchers all along the border have received warnings through their Mexican laborers that their places were to be visited by bandits. The majority, awake now to the seriousness of the situation, are well prepared, however, and the general sentiment is "let 'em come."

LA CROSSE MAN STUMBLES TO HIS DEATH IN RIVER

Clam Digger Pitches from Motorboat and Drowns in Channel Off Winona Levee

BOAT RUNS WILD IN STREAM

Pilotless Motorboat Cuts Big Circle and Is Captured Near Scene of Owner's Death

Warren Woodard, a clam digger who formerly lived in La Crosse, and whose parents have their home here, stumbled over the engine of his motor boat yesterday afternoon and pitched into the river, drowning before help could reach him. The accident occurred in the center of the main channel, just off the Winona levee.

Woodard's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woodard, 520 South Third street. For several years the son has been a resident of Homer, Minn. He is survived by a wife and one child. He was 35 years of age. The body has not been recovered.

Boat Runs Mile Alone

The engine of his flat-scow was running top speed when Woodard fell into the river, and the boat ran pilotless for nearly a mile before it was captured. It cut a wide circle in the stream and was eventually overtaken and run to shore close to the spot where its owner sank.

Witnesses of the accident said today that Woodard came up three times, but that he had disappeared for the last time when rescuers in a hurriedly launched skiff reached the spot.

Woodard went to Winona early yesterday afternoon to satisfy an account with the Winona Boat and Machine works, making the trip in his flat-bottomed launch.

The fatal accident was witnessed by A. A. Artz of Winona who stood on the river front when Woodard started his engine for the return home. Almost immediately after noticing that the engone was wide open, he saw Woodard rise to his feet as if he intended to go to the rear of the boat, and lose his balence when he stumbled over the engine. In an effort to escape being caught on the clam hooks on the side of the boat, he kicked himself free and fell on his back into the stream.

Artz quickly summoned assistance but the men had barely left the shore when Woodard sank for the third and last time. The accident happened in the middle of the channel in about twenty feet of water.

RUINS GIVE UP FIVE BODIES

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 4.—Five horribly burned bodies of children have been recovered from the ruins of the St. Francis Girls' Correctory which burned to the ground early today.

Elizabeth O'Brien, 14, and her 5-year-old sister Katie have been identified among the dead, but the other corpses were burned almost beyond recognition.

Nearly fifty other children narrowly escaped in the care of nuns.

TAG DAY WILL MAKE RECORD SAY THOSE AT HEADQUARTERS

TAG DAY SIDELIGHTS

She was a workingwoman, well past middle age. The tagger approached. The woman exhibited a ten dollar bill.

"It's all I have," she said. "Wait until I have it changed."

Five minutes later she was back and a quarter jingled into the tagger's box.

The meanest man has been discovered in La Crosse. There were two of him. Their qualification for the position is undoubted, for they cut squares of orange pasteboard and wore the counterfeit tags on their lapels for a real one.

Two cents was the smallest price paid for a tag so far as could be discovered this afternoon. A tagger sold one for that sum at one of the breweries this morning. The workman explained that was all he had.

"But come around after 4 o'clock, when I get paid," he added. "I'll get another one."

"That's for Miss Peterson and the babies," said a woman, poking a five dollar bill into a tagger's box. "I don't know much about the visiting nurse work, but I visited the Myrick park baby station."

Before the taggers started through one of the manufacturing plants this morning the office sent word around to the men:

"Get your change ready."

The taggers didn't have enough tags to go around.

At another plant the management sent the office girls through the works with tags to save time for the taggers.

Miss Grace Clark, 11, was the youngest tagger. She was on duty early this morning and at 3 o'clock this afternoon was still selling tags with remarkable success at the corner of Fifth and Main streets.

MISS MARY SMITH FORMER LIBRARIAN MARRIES IN EAST

Becomes Wife of St. Paul Retired Publisher in Worcester, Mass., September 2

WEDDING IS NO SURPSISE

Friends Knew of Approaching Marriage When She Resigned at Library in July

Miss Marl Alice Smith, for eleven years librarian of the La Crosse public library, and Charles Richard McKenney of St. Paul, were married Thursday in Worcester, Mass., according to word received here today. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Lewis G. Morris in All Saints church.

Announcement of the marriage occasioned little surprise in La Crosse, Miss Smith having resigned her post at the public library early in July. Intimate friends were told of her approaching marriage at that time. Miss Lillian Borreson succeeded Miss Smith as librarian August 1.

Mr. and Mrs. McKenney will make their home in North St. Paul, where Mr. McKenney has made his home for several years. He was formerly in the government service at Washington for many years, where it fell to his lot to enroll the McKinley, Dingley and Payne-Aldrich tariff bills. Previous to his entrance into the government employ, Mr. McKenney was a publisher. He had large interests in newspapers in Minnesota and other western states, and he still retains investments in several prosperous newspaper properties. He is retired from active business.

GIVING GENEROUS AND WIDESPREAD MANAGERS ASSERT

Few Get Down-town After 8 O'clock Without Tag Dangling from Button

BOUQUETS MAKE BIG HIT

Five Hundred Made Up Yesterday Sell Quickly and More Are Needed to Meet Demand

ORDER MORE TAGS EARLY IN DAY

Ten Thousand Printed Yesterday Last Only Until 9:30 and Banners Are Also Sold Out

Tag day is going to make a record.

This was the confident prediction of Mrs. Friend C. Suiter, manager of the campaign, at noon today, when reports of enthusiastic and widespread giving had begun to come into the headquarters of the Tag day committee at the Y. M. C. A.

Tags became the fashion early today. Few were there who got into the "loop district" after 8 o'clock without orange cards dangling from their buttons, and the decoration extended to vehicles in almost equal proportion. From the hames of almost every working horse nodded a Tag day banner, and almost every automobile had a banner tied to its radiator cap, symbolic of the owner's contribution to the visiting nurse fund.

Bouquets Sell Fast

Unprecedented success met the sale of buttonhole bouquets which Mrs. E. C. Thompson was selling at the railway stations to the traveling public, in place of tags, which she held meant nothing except to citizens of La Crosse. At 10:30 this morning Mrs. Thompson and her assistants had disposed of more than 300 of the tiny boutonnieres, and practically the entire stock of 500 made up yesterday afternoon and evening, had disappeared by 2 o'clock. From 2 to 4 this afternoon nimble fingers worked feverishly making up 200 more of the bouquets for sales to passengers on trains coming in this evening.

Not a train left the city today without visible evidence of Tag day on its pilot, for one of the first men the flower sellers aproached when a train pulled in was the engineer. The gallant locomotive drivers responded invariably by purchasing banners for their iron horses.

Estimates were impossible at noon today, Mrs. Suiter said, but she was confident that the taggers were meeting with greater than usual success. As proof she cited a rush order for more tags that was sent in at 9:30 this morning. At that time headquarters had exhausted its 10,000 supply laid in yesterday, and practically all of the 500 banners printhad also disappeared. This was before the canvass of the homes, scheduled to begin at 11 o'clock, of which great things were expected.

North Side Plays Tag Too

The south side wasn't the only part of the city playing "tag" today. The north side people had a game all their own. The women in charge of the campaign on the upper end of the causeway were meeting with as unusual success as upon the south side, according to the reports emanating from the "taggers" in that portion of the city at noon.

Everywhere success is met, people in general cheerfully "coming across" with a contribution, large or small, according to the ability of the "tagged," it was said.

The following ladies and their stations are working on the north side under the direction of Mrs. Frank W. Allen, chairman: Mrs. Walter Woods, Grand Crossing; Mrs. H. L. Partridge, George and Gillette streets; Mrs. James Peterson, Caledonia and Clinton streets; Mrs. C. L. Llen, Rose and St. Cloud streets; Mrs. William Dwyer, Rubber Mills; and Mrs. Frank W. Allen, Mill and Island streets.

Misses Josephine Mahoney and Sadie Allen, and Mrs. McInnes had charge of the house to house cavassing.

Eleven thousand tags and eight hundred banners had been given out to the three hundred taggers at 1:30 this afternoon. It was confidently predicted that few would be left by

To Call Jewish Congress Soon

It seems now to be settled that a Jewish congress is to be called at an early date. The place is to be either New York or Washington, and the time such as to enable deputations selected by such congress, and resolutions adopted by it, to get themselves and their cause before the world in advance of settlements that somebody must make when the war ends. It is recognized by Jews that America must lead in formulating demands and in presenting them. More than that, it is declared that American Jews must back up the demands if anything is to come of them.

The purpose is to bring into the settlement of the great war the Jewish problem, and have it settled once for all when other momentous questions are settled. This Jewish question is not Zionism, but civil liberty, equal privilege, common treatment for Jews throughout the world. Incidentally a state in Palestine has its part, but such plan is more humanitarian than political. Since Jews in Europe are handicaped by war and many other conditions Jews of America felt themselves called upon to act in the name of all Judaism.

Congregationalists Already Planning 1920 Celebration

The summer barely over, Congregationalists who are to meet at New Haven at the end of October, are talking about the form that the 1920 celebration is to take. The meeting is their national council, now sitting every two years instead of every three as formerly. It will meet in Centre church, on the famous New Haven green. While there will be two more councils before the 1920 date, everybody seems to be agreed that this meeting this year must give careful thought, possibly make definite recommendation, about the manner of making the three hundredth anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims.

Work Hampered By Lack of Men

By reason of the recent deaths the Sacred College of Cardinals of the Roman Catholic church has again approached its lowest numbers. So grave is the situation that the work of the Curia, or local administrative force, is hampered for lack of men. The place of Grand Penitentiary and Dean is vacant through the death of Cardinal Vannutelli the elder, and the See of Albano, one of the suburban ones of Rome, is vacant through the death of Cardinal Aliardi.

It now seems to be generally conceded both in Rome and in America that the venerable Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul will be created cardinal at the next consistory. The wonderful services of this archbishop to his church and to America are known frequently to have been referred to by Pope Benedict. It is also known that the elevation of another American, and especially Archbishop Ireland, fits in with the world policy that the present Pope seems to have laid out for himself and for his church.

Deaths From Cancer.

There is absolutely no reason why we should not face the cancer mystery without either apprehension or panic. Cancer is a serious disease, but even at its most modern worst it ranks only seventh among the causes of death, claiming about as many victims as summer diarrhea of children at one end of the life scale and apoplexy at the other. And there is no valid evidence that it is increasing.

ENGLAND FACES MORE TROUBLES

LONDON, Sept 4.—The government today was faced with fresh labor disputes that threaten to interfere with the production of munitions for the British armies. Trouble broke out yesterday at the big Armstrong armament works, near Manchester. It was understood, however, that the difference there would be submitted to arbitration today.

In several sections of England coal miners are threatening to quit work evidently emboldened by the success of the Wales miners in their recent strike.

WILSON MAY VISIT FAIR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Rumors that President Wilson may yet visit the San Francisco exposition were revived yesterday by the definite white house announcement that the chief executive will not return to Cornish this year. It was denied, however, that he has any plans for a western trip.

Too often there is a sting back of honeyed words.

The Carpet Took Him Right Up Into the Air.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Boy That Looked For the Rim of the World.

"ONCE a little boy looked for the rim of the world," said daddy to the children. "I will tell you about it. This little boy lived in a white farmhouse that was not far from a great city.

"And what particularly interested him about them was that the sky seemed to come down over all the edges of the view as if it had been an overturned bowl right over the earth, and he called it a rim, and he wondered what lay beyond it, and he thought that naturally there must be one rim outside another and so on till there was reached the rim of the world.

"So one afternoon, what do you think? Why, he was sitting in a green field, looking at the beautiful view and wondering about that mysterious rim of the world, and all of a sudden a funny little gnome, with the oddest wizened, wrinkled little face you ever saw, came to him, and he held in his hands a gay little carpet.

"'I know what you want, sonny,' he said. 'You want to find the rim of the world. I have here a magic carpet which will take you anywhere you want to go. You just sit on it and wish yourself somewhere—and, presto there you are.'

"'Mr. Carpet,' he said, 'I want to go to Europe and look at the war.'

"So the carpet took him right up into the air and flew away with him.

"And the carpet reached the battlefields of Europe, but it did not go down on the ground. It remained up in the air, where it was much safer, and the little boy looked down and saw the men in the trenches and the big cannon.

"'I don't like war. Take me where there's peace,' said the little boy. So the carpet, which was there just to oblige him, whisked him to a city away down in sleepy Asia, where there were temples and men with white robes and turbans, and these men were praying, and there was an atmosphere of peace.

"So the carpet proceeded, taking the little boy wherever he wanted to go and he wanted to go almost everywhere, and he found there were ever so many rims to the world, and there didn't seem to be any end to them, and he grew so tired of seeing new rims that he asked the little carpet to take him home.

"And the carpet did so and landed the little boy right back at the point from which he started.

"And what do you think? The little boy woke up. He had been dreaming, you see."

PEACE PLANS DEADLOCKED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—A deadlock has been reached with General Carranza on Mexican peace plans, diplomats were convinced yesterday, making the time for the next Pan-American conference uncertain. Plans were being made, however, for another meeting probably next week in New York.

GENERAL ORDERS FOR TAG DAY

Paraphrasing Lord Nelson's battle-order, we submit as a Tag-day slogan:

"La Crosse expects every man to do his duty."

The chances are that by the time that you read this you will have done your duty. If that is the case, this reminder is not meant for you. But if you have been overlooked by the tagging maidens get busy at once. You don't want the tag-day record made up without your contribution.

You can still get in under the wire—up to 8 o'clock. When you go downtown for your Saturday evening shopping or the movies keep an eye out for the taggers.

A NOBLE ARMY

Already the distant rumble of the band-wagon—or is it the steam-roller?—can be heard. Republican National Chairman Reynolds is swinging 'round the circuit feeling out sentiment. The political pot is a-boiling, for 1916 is presidential year. Like the rest of us, the Saturday Evening Post has noticed the candidates grooming themselves for the race and pricking up their ears for the call of the people. The familiar sight fathered the following bit of satiric advice:

"We were humiliated the other day by reading in a Chicago newspaper that Illinois had three 'leading' candidates, on the republican side, for the presidential nomination.

"The convention is barely ten months off, and politics must have fallen in to a contemptible state if at this comparatively late day only three favorite sons of Illinois have advanced their presidential aspirations to a stage where they can be regarded as 'leading' candidates.

"Illinois contains upward of a million native-born white males of voting age, about half of whom are republicans. The invidious constitutional requirements that the president must be thirty-five years old may disqualify ten or fifteen per cent of them. Thirty or forty per cent may be disqualified by bad habits, inability to write, lack of a plug hat and other fortuitous disadvantages. Among the remaining two hundred thousand-and-odd there must be relatively few who could not, with some practice, do whatever the leading three have done by way of setting up a provisional lien on the White House.

"The situation in Illinois is strictly typical of that in various other states. In this matter of favorite sons, and during the open season, which extends from August to June every fourth year, we favor the idea involved in conscription—the idea, that is, of a levy en masse. It is the complimentary season. If a man has attracted any special attention of a political nature—if he has made an interesting speech, or had his name attached to a law that forty other men framed, or successfully prosecuted an unpopular criminal who pleaded guilty, or unfalteringly held a public office for many years—his fellow citizens testify to their appreciation by entering him in the presidential race as a favorite son. It is a genial custom, but much too restricted in its application. Every amiable man likes to pay a compliment when it costs him nothing. Whenever as many as twenty can agree, and the object of their agreement can secure a frock coat and a silk hat, he ought to have a fair chance in the running. We should like to see the favorite sons regimented and marching in far-flung serried ranks to a grand elimination contest just before the National Convention, each one wearing his own campaign button and waving a banner inscribed with the name of the precinct turnverein or village improvement club that backed him."

After discussion of the north side high school proposal the committee passed the buck to the council. What will the council do? Pass the hat?

Uncle Sam gets no vacation this year. He just got the submarine situation nicely settled and here comes Mexico again.

There will be numerous clouds over the "shining morning faces" of local school-boys about Tuesday morning.

The man who got a tag for a beer-check is the same person that as a youth took candy from his baby brother.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

The Skirted Animal

Half an inch, half an inch,
Half an inch shorter!
Whether the skirts are for
Mother or daughter!
Briefer the dresses grow,
Fuller the ripples flow,
While whisking glimpses show
More than they oughter!

Forward th dress parade!
Is there a man dismayed?
No! From the sight displayed
None could be sundered!
Theirs no: to make remark;
Clergyman, clubman, clerk—
Gaping from noon till dark
At the Four Hundred.

Short skirts to right of them!
Shorter to left of them!
Shortest in front of them,
Flaunted and flirted!
In hose of stripe and laid,
Huped most exceeding glad,
Sporting in spats run mad,
Come the short-skirted!

Flashed all their ankles there;
Flashed as they turned in air!
What will not women dare?
(Though the exhibits show
Some of them blundered!)
All sorts of types and pegs—
Broomsticks, piano legs;
Here and there fairy shapes,
Just built to walk on eggs,
Come by the hundred!

When can their glory fade?
Oh, the wild show they made!
All the world wondered.
Grand dame and demoiselle,
Shop girl and Bowery belle—
Four Hundred? H'm—oh, well,
Any old hundred!
—Carolyn Wells in Judge.

A Poor Interview

An English correspondent said in Washington:

"I once tried to interview Lord Kitchener, the English war minister. I tackled him after dinner in a hotel lounge as he sipped his coffee and puffed on a huge cigar. He stared at me when I proffered my request, then he blew a cloud of smoke and said:

"'I never gave an interview in my life, and I never intend to.'

"This seemed decisive enough. I felt myself getting red, and I stammered, as I prepared to go:

"'Well, than, Lord Kitchener, will you at least give me your autogarph. It would be worth having.'

"He blew another cloud of smoke Then he answered:

"'You'd better go off and make your own autograph worth having.'"

Wanted to Play Elephant

Kansas City Star: A 6 year old Oak Park boy was eating peanuts. He ate them in the usual manner for a time and then poked one up his nose. Not getting the desired results in that fashion he went crying to his mother. She tried to remove the peanut, and after failing in the attempt called a physician. After the peanut was removed, the physician had gone and things settled down to some extent, the mother began to demand an explanation.

"Why in the world did you want to poke a peanut up your nose, anyway?" she asked.

"Well," replied the boy in self-defense, "that's the way elephants eat them."

Statue of Kaiser

The design of the equestrian statue of the kaiser, to be erected at Heidelberg, has been completed. It represents the emperor, bare-headed, grasping a marshal's baton. The pedestal bears these inscriptions:

"Germany will never be vanquished when she is united."

"Through night and death towards victory."

Waited Patiently

The bookkeeper approached his employer diffidently.

"Seven years ago, sir," he began, "you engaged me on a week's trial."

"Well, what of it?"

"May I presume now that my position is permanent?"

His Last Wish

After a hurried rush through the night the doctor found his patient in a very bad way.

"My dear sir," he said slowly, "I have been attending you for nine weeks and have done my best, but I'm afraid your end is near. Have you any last wish to express "

The patient drew a long breath.

"Yes, doctor," he replied, in a faint voice, "I wish I had had another doctor!"

Making the Most of It.

A physician tells of two young friends of his who entered simultaneously upon their respective careers as physician and lawyer.

Late one afternoon the newly made medico dashed into the room of his legal friend, exclaiming, "Great luck, old man! Congratulate me! Got a patient at last! On the way to see him now!"

Whereupon the legal light-to-be slapped his friend on the back, saying, "Delighted, old chap!" Then, after a slight pause, he added, with a sly grin, "I say, let me go with you. Perhaps he hasn't made his will."

STRAYED KIDS AT EXPO ARE RIGHTED

Lost and Found Department Maintained to Find Homes of Lost Children

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 4.—There is a sort of "kiddies exchange" at the Panama-Pacific exposition. It bears the official title of the Lost and Found department. Into it come the weeping tots who are found gazing in wide-eyed wonder upon the big arches or spouting fountains, oblivious to the fact that they are "lost."

There are two matrons on duty whose sole duties are to dry away tears, give assurances that mother or father certainly will be there soon, and make the little ones as comfortable as possible. On one of the biggest days of the exposition 65 youngsters were "lost" between the time the gates opened and 10 o'clock that night. They were picked up by guards in various parts of the grounds, but mostly along the Zone and the Marina where the tots were drinking in the sights with such fever that they did not notice they were alone in the crowds.

When asked for official figures on the number of "lost" at the exposition up to mid-August, the matrone of the Lost and Found department said 1,112, "including children and grown-ups."

"Grown-ups?"

"Oh, yes," came the reply, "grown-ups have gotten lost at the exposition. Of course a majority of those cared for in the Lost and Found department are children, but often a man or woman becomes separated from a party. Then, they come to the Lost department, deposit themselves with us and wait for their friends to come for them."

Crap Game Spoiled

Some prying youngsters playing along the Marina recently wrecked a long standing pastime of guards and messenger boys employed about the exposition. It was done in absolute innocence, but nevertheless the exposition guards do not care to hurry to the waterfront now when they have an hour or so off.

Along the sides of the Palace of Manufacturers, Education and other buildings on the Marina are thick growths of small trees and green brush. One afternoon while several children were playing on the grass they heard coming from behind the foliage such expressions as, "Come seven! stay away Little Joe! now you 'leven!" One little girl spied a guard on duty and ran to him.

"There are some men talking funny behind those bushes," the child informed the khaki clad guardian of exposition peace. The guard went to investigate the "funny" talk. There was a scattering of boys and men and a full blown crap game was disrupted.

Picking Jools

People have been picking "jools" off the Tower of Jewels and the exposition officials are all worked up over it. The massive tower, which resembles a gigantic wedding cake of several layers, is bedecked on all upper layers with Austrian "novagems." The big "jewels" are inlaid and swung pendant like from every projecting point of the tower, causing it to glitter and sparkle in the sunlight or in the rays of the numerous searchlights played upon it as night. Picking jewels, however, is no business, in the opinion of officials and extra guards are to be placed on duty in the tower.

Although the exposition crowds in general are not permitted to go up in the tower, persons who have been taken up have obtained souvenirs by snipping off a jewel here and there. Officials declare if this keeps up the tower's glitter will soon cease to glit, to say nothing of the fact that about $100 worth of jewels have been carried away. At this rate visitors must have stoden several bushels.

"More people would observe the Golden Rule," remarked the man on the car, "if they were not afraid of being labeled easy marks."

PUBLIC DEBATE

Editor Tribune:

Preparedness for national defense is just now a most pertinent question. Here is a suggestion absolutely without cost, that calls for no idleness or waste of productive force. It is simply a gun club in every community. The Afghans held the British for months by their superior marksmanship.

Let the government furnish the latest perfected arms to every community that will organize a club of not less than twenty men. Have one elected captain to conduct practice and care of arms. Have these men registered with the governor with distinct understanding that if needed for defense they will enlist.

This would familiarize the men with the use of government arms and make them effective when facing invaders.

Only the bullets that hit count.

Do we remember New Orleans?

Of course the overhead and undersea departments would be the chief factors. But a volley of squirrel shots would deter any reckless invasion.

The above is respectfully submitted to those studying the defense problem. A. R. C.

TIME'S FORELOCK

By IZOLA FORRESTER

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"I feel sure," wrote Gwendolen's mother, "that once Gwen is with you, Aunt Lavinia, she cannot fail to realize her inexperience and foolishness in this matter. Mind, I do not say that he is not a very good sort of a boy. There is nothing against him unless that he is a Dinwiddie. Neither you nor I could overlook that, but I have conscientiously tried not to prejudice Gwen on that score. Keep her for a month or two. I am so glad Kenneth is with you."

Gwen was down on the tennis court with Kenneth at the moment, and Miss Newcomb regarded them fondly from the broad veranda. Matters were progressing very well indeed, considering Gwen. She had been there a week and had not appeared to be pining. Certainly she liked Kenneth, which was rather remarkable, for Gwen was at a tempestuous age, in her first summer after college, and Kenneth was not the type of man to appeal to the romantic instinct in any girl.

He was thirty, slightly bald, genial, well along in his profession and very fond of Gwen. He had even remarked that he admired her mentally, which was a concession on his part, as women in the aggregate were either angels or sirens to Kenneth. He rarely accorded them the figt of brains.

This afternoon as she watched them a delightful plot was hatched in Miss Newcomb's mind, a plot so pleasant and wily, so innocent and yet so inducive to good results that she rocked to and fro and almost purred over it. Gwen was her favorite niece. It was merely taking time by the forelock to give her a goodly portion of her future inheritance, and it would bring matters to a climax and close out all possibilities of a match between a Newcomb and a Dinwiddie.

"Gwen, dear," she said, as the girl came up the steps and sank into a chair beside her, flushed and pretty, "I've been thinking over matters very seriously. You know I've not been well for some time."

"Why, I didn't know that auntie," exclaimed Gwen, quick to sympatize. "Really?"

"Really. And I would want to see you settled before my own call came, you understand, child. You will be here for a while more. Be good to Kenneth, dear, and I will talk more fully to you in another week."

"In another week," Gwen thought over the phrase in perplexity. It was not hard being good to Kenneth. One could hardly be otherwise, he was so gentle and docile, so anxious to please. She even confided to him all about Don Dinwiddie, and coaxed him to mail her letters for her when he went down to the village. And Kenneth in return told her that he was trying to get up courage to propose to a lovely widow whose estate he had been settling.

"I'm going to wait a year, Gwen," he said rather plaintively. "That's decent, don't you think? I haven't told your aunt. She's been so mighty nice to me, and she has all sorts of plans up her sleeve for those she likes, you know."

"Has she been talking to you about me?" asked Gwen with swift suspicion. "She told me to be good to you."

"Only that you would have more money than the widow," laughed Kenneth good naturedly. "Very tactful of her, wasn't it?"

It was stormy down at Sea Haven the next week. The waves ran high and crashed against the summer cottages along the shore drive, yet Miss Newcomb clung to her and refused to return to the city. The train service along the shore was uncertain and finally when the schedule was given up, as part of the tracks lay under water, she sprung her plan.

Gwen was preparing for bed, her long braids of hair lying over her shoulders, her white silk kimono with its huge satin chrysanthemums showing her tall, girlish figure to the best advantage. Miss Newcomb smiled at her from the wicker chair beside the dressing table.

"Gwen, my dear, if you are married inside of forty-eight hours I will give you $10,000. You will have more after my death."

"This is a sort of bonus on good behavior?" queried Gwen, lifting her eyebrows. Don't think that I don't understand, Aunt Lavinia, because I do perfectly. Is Kenneth to receive a bonus, too, if he musters up courage to propose to me in that time?"

Miss Newcomb rose with dignity. "Think it over that is all I wish to say. Think it over carefully. There are four more girls back home, Gwen, and you owe your mother something."

After the door closed Gwen got up and stood at the open window watching the waves break below her on the long white beach. Don was in New York and no trains were running along the shore road. She could wire him to meet her in Jersey City or even nearer, but how could she get to him, be married and return.

The whiff of a cigarette floated up to her from the garden below and she leaned over the window sill.

"Kenneth," she said softly, "I want to talk to you."

Peacefully Miss Newcomb slept that night. At breakfast her two guests seemed to have made decided progress. She smiled and said nothing, but went up to her little writing room to send off a long letter to Gwen's mother, as soon as the mails should run again.

At noon Kenneth came into the dining-room. He said that Gwen had a headache and was lying down, and he chatted delightfully until after 2 o'clock. It was after 4 before Miss Newcomb was awakened from her own siesta by the ringing of her telephone bell. It was a call from the nearest telegraph office down at the beach pier. The message was read to her over the wire.

"Married to Don 3.15, Atlantic City. Love. Gwen."

"Don't support me, Kenneth," said the old lady grimly, waving him from her. "I can stand a shock as well as any one and this isn't the first. I didn't know the girl was out of the house. Come out here on the porch and tell me the whole thing. She made you help her, I suppose."

"Dinwiddie's a bully chap," Kenneth answered frankly. "They love each other and Gwen's of age. I don't see why they shouldn't be married."

"How did you get past the submerged sandbars?"

"I drove her in my car. I understood it was a question of making time. She's coming back tomorrow morning. I wish I were married as easily to the woman I love."

He spoke pleasantly, and she eyed him with a glint of humor in her wise old eyes.

"Kenneth, you're a dear lad, a dear lad. You're more to blame than Gwen, for if you had exerted yourself I know you'd have won her. Since it's done, we'll give them a blessing and the check and send them out to seek their fortune along love's highway. If Fate has ordained that we have a Dinwiddie in the family, far be it from me to upset matters. Hand me that letter on the little green table in the hall, will you? It needs a postscript."

She opened it and added with Kenneth's fountain pen, a last word to Gwen's mother.

"Gwen's won the ten thousand. Married Don Dinwidde at Atlantic City today. Don't scold her. We'd have to forgive the Dinwiddies by judgment day, and may as well begin practicing on Don now."

"Wire Gwen my love, Kenneth," she said, placidly.

FIVE 'BOES HELD FOR ROBBING AND BEATING RUSSIAN

Victim Whose Name the Authorities Cannot Understand or Spell Loses $30

TOMAH, Wis., Sept. 4.—Five hoboes are in jail here, to be tried this afternoon for beating and robbing a Russian railroad laborer whose name the authorities cannot understand, much less spell. The Russian is held as a witness, with a deep gash on his head and a severely bruised arm and shoulder.

The wounds of the victim are declared to be the result of a beating administered yesterday afternoon by five men who leaped upon him near Raymour, as he was walking along the railroad track toward Tomah. With a heavy club he was knocked to the ground and $30 taken from him.

Two of the quintette held for the robbery were captured at Tomah last night. The other three were caught at New Lisbon on wired descriptions sent out by Tomah, and brought back early this morning by the Tomah marshal.

The men will be arraigned when District Attorney Abel arrives this afternoon from Sparta.

THOUSANDS ATTEND DEDICATION OF THE NORTH WHITE WAY

ALDERMAN AND MAYOR PULL THE LIGHT SWITCHES

North Side Band Enlivens the Program of Dedication with Good Music

HIGH SCHOOL IS DISCUSSED

Bentley Tells North Side Not to Arouse Bitterness and Mahoney Urges New School

Thousands of people lined both sides of Rose street last night at the formal opening of the White way extending for two blocks, between Hagar and St. James streets. The north side turned out en masse to celebrate the completion of one of the largest community enterprises ever undertaken by the north side. For half a block on either side of St. Cloud street on Rose street, people lined the sidewalks and street, while scores of automobiles banked the side streets.

The dedication exercises included addresses by Mayor Bentley and Alderman Paul W. Mahoney, the father of the White way, and a musical program by the North Side Military band.

Lights at 8:02½

At precisely two and a half minutes after 8 o'clock, Mayor Bentley in the 800 block, and Alderman Paul W. Mahoney in the 700 block, turned on the juice which made the Rose street White way a reality. The two switches were pulled at the discharge of a signal gun by Detective Daniel Dineen. The popular north side band at the same time burst forth with "Independentia,' following it with a second selection to allow the speakers of the evenig to return to the temporary stand erected on the east side of Rose street.

Alderman Arthur Schulze of the north side, in introducing the speakers, took occasion to compliment the committee in charge of the work, Henry Baum, C. L. Lien and James Gibson upon their successful efforts. Mr. Bentley was the only mayor of the city who ever lived on the north side, he said, although that portion of the city had a number of aspirants who never graduated from the "only ran" class.

Urges Harmony

The keynote of Mayor Bentley's address was a plea that the citizens of the city forget that there were north and south sides and join in co-operation and harmony for a greater and better La Crosse.

The mayor drew a round of applause at the statement that were it possible to forget the north side and south side so far as concerns two sections of the city, and to work together in harmony, the people of the city could get anything they desired. He followed the statement by declaring that the north side would never get their much-desired high school by embittering the opposition, saying that the proper course is to show its necessity. The south side is not against the proposition, he said.

He closed his address with the remark that he hoped before many years to see the White way extended across the causeway, the land along it built up with substantial offices, and with the mayor's office midway.

Several selections by the band preceded the introduction of Mr. Mahoney by Alderman Schulze, who declared the alderman the man who brought the first automobile to the north side, the father of the White way and the "livest wire the north side ever had." "Our wet nurse," as Mr. Schulze declared his undignified monaker to be, discussed the needs of the north side, and the struggles its residents have had to make to get the desired results, reviewing, incidentally, the progress of the north side since he became one of its residents some thirty years ago when it was a noticeable accomplishment to drive an empty wagon through the sandy streets.

He discussed briefly the fight for a park from the beginning of 1894; the initial fight for sewers on the north side, and the fight over the Mill street crossing and final erection of the Rose street viaduct. He said the viaduct was the cause of the existence of the White way, the two enterprises combined being the making of the north side. Continuing, he expressed the hope that the White way proposition would not now be dropped but that the lighting system would be extended on Rose street north to Clinton street, over Clinton to Caledonia street, and down Caledonia.

Urges High School

He discussed the necessity of the north side high school, declaring that he was warranted in making the statement that such a higher educational institution was a necessity, because of the statements to that effect made by Superintendent of Schools Benezet, Principal B. E. McCormick and the board of education.

Following the speaking program, the North Side Military band entertained the throng with a thoroughly appreciated concert. A varied program was given, lasting almost an hour.

At the conclusion of the concert light refreshments were served at the K. of P. hall.

The electrical construction of the White way system was under the direct supervision of Herman Fjelstad, 709 St. Paul street.

FUTURITY DAY AT SARATOGA

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Today is Futurity Day, but unless the unexpected happens it will not make racing a history. The younsters who might give the year's two-year-old classic real importance are not eligible and the best expected at the track this afternoon was that it would prove a good horse race. One interesting possibility is White Hackle, sold by John Madden to the Shashane stable for $19,000. It is estimated that Madden sold Novelty about a month before Novelty won the futurity in 1910.

BATTERY IS SENT FROM SPARTA TO MEXICAN BORDER

Texas Artillery Gets Rush Orders to Hurry to Fort Sam Houston as Result of Uprising

BATTERY A WILL REMAIN

Battery A and Band Will Remain at Robinson Until Middle of September

SPARTA, Wis., Sept. 4.—Hurry up orders to re-enforce the United States troops already on the border, as a result of the bandit uprising which has caused the death of several Texans in the last few days, it became known today, caused the sudden preparations for removal of Battery B from Camp Robinson. The battery will be rushed to Fort Sam Houston for border guard duty as quickly as it can be entrained.

SPARTA, Wis., Sept. 4.—(Special.)—Battery B, U. S. A., of Texas, is today making preparations for leaving Camp Robinson tomorrow morning. Officers of the camp will accompany the battery to Fort Sam Houston.

The route of the trip will be through New Orleans. Battery A will remain in camp with band until about the middle of the month, when they will entrain for Chicago. There they will remain in the artillery camp of instruction for business men until the middle of October when they will likely be ordered back to the south.

Colonial Van Deusen, commander of the camp all summer, made the statement to the TRIBUNE correspondent at Sparta yesterday that the work accomplished this summer had been highly successful, and that in his opinion the militia trained by the regular army will be 50 per cent more efficient.

SHARKS INVEST SCENE OF SINKING

QUEENSTOWN, Sept. 4.—Great schools of monster sharks are infesting the waters off Old Head of Kinsale where the Lusitania and her human cargo went down. Fishermen made the discovery and have temporarily abandoned the Kinsale fishing grounds.

Cheap Fish-Glue.

A few cents invested in fish-glue will furnish a year's supply. Place a teaspoonful in the cup, half fill with water, simmer slowly on the back of the range; when of the consistency of double cream it is ready for heavy cementing, such as leather or wood. By adding a little water, it can be thinned and reheated an indefinite number of times. It is best to set the little "glue pot" in a dish of hot water for heating.

How Isinglass Is Made.

The raw material of isinglass is the air bladders or sounds of fish, and is not of value except for this one purpose. In Russia, where the finest isinglass is made, the sounds of the sturgeon are cut open and steeped in water until the outer membrane separates from the inner; then the latter is washed and dried in the sun.

Fate.

PREPARE PARK FOR LABOR DAY PICNIC

Workmen Are Busy Today Erecting Booths and Platform for Speakers Next Monday

TOMORROW IS LABOR SUNDAY

Many Churches Will Take Note of Day and Four Clergymen Will Preach Sermons on Labor

Booths were being erected at the old shooting park today and all other preliminary details completed for the big Labor day picnic which will be held next Monday. A crew of workmen was busy most of the day erecting the ice cream and sandwich stands, and the big platform from which Mayor A. A. Bentley, Senator Otto Bosshard and Fred H. Hartwell will address the crowds expected to attend organized labor's annual celebration.

Labor day will be introduced this year by Labor Sunday in La Crosse, according to the suggestion made some time ago by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. Many of the churches in the city will take note of the labor celebration in their services tomorrow morning, and four of the most prominent clergymen have prepared special sermons on Labor day topics. Rev. W. J. Peacock of the First Baptist church will deliver an address on "The Union Label." Rev. D. C. Jones, who but recently returned from the chautauqua at Winona Lake, Ind., will bring a message from that gathering anent the attitude of the church toward organized labor. AllThings inCommon will be the subject of Rev. C. C. Rowlison's sermon tomorrow morning at the Congregational church. Rev. Finch A. Clarke of the North Presbyterian church will speak on "The Lowliness of Man."

Symptoms of Disease.

Red eyes, a "stuffy" nose, a flushed face, a tickling cough, a sore, hot throat—these are the early signs of scarlet fever, of pneumonia, of bronchitis, of typhus, of smallpox, of measles, and often of diphtheria. So that all that sniffles is not cold by any means. And to keep a safe distance from anyone showing this combination of danger signals, or any part of them, will protect us from a score of dangers.

What Happened to Camera When Uncle Sam's 12-inch Mortars Were Fired at Fort Totten

These photographs illustrate Uncle Sam's preparation for war by the test of the great twelve inch mortars at Fort Totten, which protect New York from invasion by way of Long Island Sound. The fort is on Long Island, some miles from Manhattan and Brooklyn, and it is designed for the destruction of enemy ships which might approach the city by the back door. The great mortars, which shoot seven miles, were tried out the other day. Photographers set up their cameras just back of the guns and tried to catch them as they were fired. The vibration was so great that the picture was blurred.

THE FALL TERM OF THE KEEFE BUSINESS COLLEGE 4th and Pearl Sts.,

will begin September 7, 1915. Students are registering every day. Our special rate will close Saturday, Sept. 4. Don't forget that while there are many good schools in La Crosse and vicinity, the Keefe Business College excels them all. This was vividly demonstrated last winter when the revealing of our methods caused a real sensation among the students of another college in this city. The result was that 36 students discarded their paid up scholarships and came to us to complete their education. This caused their former teachers to resign and go into business for themselves. It was the Keefe business methods that did it. They can't be equalled. Get your scholarship of us now. You will likely come to us later to complete your education as many others have. Another feature about this college worth considering is you are always sure of getting a good position when you finish your education. Office open day and evening. Call, telephone or write for further information.

CHILDREN OF ITALIAN AMBASSADOR TO U. S. HELP SWELL WAR RELIEF FUND

Agnes and Stefano Macchi di Cellere in dancing costume

Agnes and Stefano Macchi di Cellere, the children of the Italian ambassador to the United States, helped swell the Italian war relief fund last week by performing native dancing in native costume. The Italian festa at which they appeared was under the patronage of their parents, and was held at Lookout Hill, the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond.

ITALIANS WIN BIG VICTORY BY TAKING CITY OF ROVERETO

Rome Reports Greatest Single Victory in the Italian Advance Upon Trent

ROME, Sept. 4.—Roverto, teh largest Austrian city to fall before the Italian armies, is being slowly occupied by the king's troops.

The Roverto forts, which blocked the Italian advance on Trent, only 13 miles away were blown up early Thursday and the Austrians began to evacuate the city, retreating northward up the Adige valley in the direction of Trent. Before retiring the enemy forces demolished all the historic Italian monuments and set fire to the homes of Italian residents.

Capture of Roverto marks the greatest single victory in the Italian advance upon Trent, the goal of General Cadorni's forces in the north.

Though the Austrians have constructed barricades across the valley between Roverto and Trent, military men here believe the Italian troops will approach Trent itself before winter halts military operations.

Too often ambition impels men to strive for the high places that are already well occupied.

U. S. MAY ACCEPT GERMAN PLAN OF SHIP EXEMPTION

Belligerent Merchant Ships Would Not Be Given Protection Afforded Liners

CHANGE OF OPINION SUDDEN

A Consideration Based on Theory Merchant Ships Would Be Hard to Distinguish

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The United States seemed likely today to accept, as fully satisfying its demands for modification of Germany's submarine warfare, the proposition that passenger liners alone and not belligerent merchant ships be given warnings by submarines. The British contention that the United States should insist on similar treatment for merchant ships probably will be rejected.

This was stated on excellent authority as the administration's latest tentative decision as to its future position. It involved a sudden change of opinion, inasmuch as the supposition Friday was that America would insist on the same treatment of passenger carrying and freight vessels. The reconsideration was understood to be based on expert representations that submarine commanders would have much more difficulty in identifying merchant ships, as compared with passenger liners, which probably would give rise to future disputes if the United States insisted on putting both in the same class.

Officials were advised that Germany's formal note on the Arabic case will be dispatched from Berlin early next week. Ambassador Gerard has cabled, however, that so far as he is aware, the report from the German submarine commander who sank the Arabic has not yet been received. The Berlin foreign office is said to take the position that the report is not necessary.

Although Berlin reports said Ambassador Bernstorff has been clothed with wide discretion to settle the submarine controversy the impression in official and diplomatic circles here was that the exchange of several more notes between Washington and Berlin must follow before the entire matter is adjusted.

GIVING GENEROUS AND WIDESPREAD MANAGERS ASSERT

the time the tagging closes, at 8 o'clock tonight.

Autos Carry Canvassers

Taggers made every house on the south side this morning. Twelve automobiles, each carrying a bevy of four or five girls, made the rounds, with astonishing success, the leaders reported.

With one exception every manufacturing establishment in the city extended a welcome to the taggers, and at two of the breweries where the taggers came early today the men instructed the girls to call later in the day. "The ghost walks" in the afternoon, the men explained.

"It is a tremendous success," Mrs. Suiter said this afternoon. "Every one is interested in the visiting nurse's work, and is more than willing to give."

Scouts Hard at It

Many were the compliments received for the polite and untiring work of the boy scouts. The youngsters, all of whom were in uniform, handled the tagging on street cars, at the wagon bridge, and at the Country club. Don Gordon and John Holley were the scouts who sold tags at the links. On the bridge were Roy Fritz, Everett Yerley, Robert Hurtgen, Albert Niebuhr, Gordon Taggart, Ralph Smith and William Hurtgen, Jr. The street car contingent included Charles Weiss, Morris Peacock, Michael Castle, Merle Watson, Harold, Smith, John Lord, Leonard Killian and Martin Skaar. The boys worked in shifts at the various stands.

WM. FAVERSHAM IN "THE RIGHT OF WAY"

The appearance of Mr. Faversham, without doubt the most important figure on the American stage, marks a forward step in photoplay advancement heretofore unparalleled in the history of the movies.

Mr. Faversham makes his screen debut in "The Right of Way" Sir Gilbert Parker's well known story. Faversham appears in the part of Cahrley Steele, the heretic, and he succeeds in making the ironical, ultra-sarcastic character of Steele the replica of the author's creation.

"The Right of Way" entailed the efforts of Mr. Faversham, Jane Grey, two hundred principals and several hundred extra people, huge crews of structural experts and ten weeks in the Canadian north woods. The picture has just finished a long run at the Strand theatre where it showed to packed houses every day at prices ranging up to a dollar. It was shown for two weeks at the Studebaker theatre in Chicago at a general admission of twenty-five and fifty cents. It will be the Monday and Tuesday feature at the Casino but Manager McWilliams will show it at the regular house prices.

BUSY TURNSTILES COUNT 5,000 AT BIG TOMAH FAIR

La Crosse and Governor's Day Comes Off with Cloudless Skies and Much Activity

EASY DAWSON TAKES THREE HEATS

Horse Races Divide Honors on Dirt Track with Noisy Motorcycles in After noon Events

TOMAH, Wis., Sept. 4.—(Special)—A crowd estimated at 5,000 persons attended the fair yesterday, when La Crosse day and Governor's day were celebrated together. The weather man was indulgent, and clear skies added to the activities of one of the biggest days in the history of the Tomah Fair association.

The special Board of Trade excursion from La Crosse arrived on schedule time with 150 from that city, seventy-five from Bangor, as many from West Salem, and twenty-five from Sparta.

Battery Wins

The baseball game between the Battery team of Camp Robinson and the picked Bangor team resulted in the Battery winning 7 to 0.

The harness races were the big features of the day.

Easy Dawson took three straight heats in the 2:18 trot. Nash was second and the Monarch third. The time was 2:20 1-4.

The 2:17 pace held the most excitement and was run in six heats. The results are as follows:

Dell Grattan	1	2	2	0	1	1
Strathberry Maid	2	1	1	0	2	2
Helen Cecil	3	3	3	3	d

Lamp Wins Chug Race

Many watched the motorcycle races with interest. In the first race, with baskets attached, Lamp took first in both heats, Frisby second in both heats, and Fenne third in both heats. The time was 9:40. In the second race, without baskets, Marks met with a mishap and fell from his machine. In the second heat of the same race he took first. Boyson was second.

Today is Children's day, all children being admitted free. The Camp Robinson Battery team wil play the Tomah Indians in a game of baseball, and horse races and automobile races will also be attractions which bid to keep interest high until the closing hour of the fair.

John Reddlin Dies

A broken back, sustained two months ago by a fall from a scaffold, caused the death late yesterday afternoon of John Reddlin, a resident of the ridge. Mr. Reddlin and other workmen were building a barn on the Gerke farm. The scaffold gave way and they were all thrown to the ground. Mr. Gerke has been confined at a La Crosse hospital until recently, when brought home.

Local and Personal

Miss Hazel Wells has gone to Aurora, Minn., where she will teach the kindergarten next year. Tomah is sorry to lose Miss Wells from the school faculty, but will wish her great success in her new school. Aurora is a town of about three thousand but has very good schools.

The "D. D.'s" gave a kitchen shower at the home of Miss Lyla Bates on Thursday evening for Miss Alpha Shultz, a bride of next week. Miss Shultz was the recipient of many gifts.

A. M. Brayton and daughter Inez, F. H. Burgess, John Brahmer and Dr. McGovern of La Crosse were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alois A. Fix yesterday.

Mrs. Will Winter and two daughters have joined Mr. Winter here at the home of his mother. They will return to their home in Washington, D. C., the first of next wek.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lane has returned to her duties at the Indian school.

Mrs. George Gartz of Milwaukee and Mrs. Will Powrie of Minneapolis are in the city, called here by the death of their father, Col. George Graham.

H. S. INSTRUCTRESS WILL WED TONIGHT

Miss Margaret Eberle, a member of the faculty of the La Crosse high school for the past year, and one of the most popular teachers at the institution, will be married tonight to Richard Rosencranz of Evansville, Ind., at the home of her parents at Watertown, Wis. Mr. Rosencranz is a prominent business man of Evansville, Ind. He is vice president of the Vulcan Plow company.

The couple will leave immediately after the ceremony for a trip through the western part of the United States and Canada, it is understood.

GROWERS APPROVE LOAN PLAN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Reports that the treasury's plan for loaning $30,000,000 on the new cotton crop through the federal reserve board, is enthusiastically approved by cotton interests, but opposed by some individual banks here today. The banks want higher interest than the 6 per cent stipulated by Secretary McAdoo.

THROCKMORTON WINS

WEST SIDE TENNIS CLUB, Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Throckmorton of Sewaren, N. J., won the interscholastic national championship this afternoon, defeating C. S. Garland of Pittsburg. The scores: 6-2, 6-6, 7-5, 63.

IMPORTANT POINT NEAR RIGA FALLS BEFORE GERMANS

Capture of Bridgehead 42 Miles from Riga Latest Success of the Austro-Germans

RIGA POSITION PRECARIOUS

Petrograd Frankly Admits That on Outcome of Battle Will Depend City's Fate

BERLIN, via Landan, Sept. 4.—German troops under Field Marshal Von Besler have stormed the strongly fortified bridgehead at Friedrichstadt, 42 miles southeast of Riga after a ten days' battle.

The Germans took 3,362 prisoners at Friedrichstadt, it was officially announced. West of Vilna and between the Vilya river, the Russians have made several vain attacks. Around Grodno the fighting continues. The Russians retreated eastward last night, hotly pursued by the Germans who now hold all the forts of Grodno and have taken 2,700 prisoners. The enemy has evacuated positions south of Grodno.

General Mackensen who is advancing eastward from Brest Litovsk toward Pinsk is approaching Drogitshin about 40 miles west of Pinsk.

Fate of Riga in Balance

PETROGRAD, Sept. 4.—A decisive battle that will settle the fate of Riga has begun. The war office admitted early today that the Russians have been thrown back across the Dwina about thirty miles southeast of Riga and that the Germans are attempting to cross the river under cover of a heavy artillery fire.

Guns are being brought up to support the enemy forces and the Slavs on the right bank of the river are receiving artillery reinforcements. It is admitted here that should the Germans throw a large body across the river the evacuation of Riga and a retirement toward Petrograd would be necessary.

WINONA WINTER IS MAJESTIC'S STAR

Petite, lovable little Winona Winter, star of half dozen seasons of musical comedy success, is the headliner of the new Majestic bill which opens tomorrow afternoon. Miss Winter's act is novel offering, described and appraised as follows by a Chicago dramatic critic:

Winona Winter, classy and petite, winsome and lovely and, above all, entertaining, was at the mast-head as this weeks' topmounter, and she occupied the position in a manner which brought her plenty of recognition. Miss Winter is very versatile. She seems able to do anything—impersonate characters, yodle, sing, ventriloquial work, and, we think if she tried—just tried—she could do anything vaudeville could demand—even to turning a double somersault. She's a very clever girl and has proven this fact many times before Chicago audiences. Her singing was immense, her impersonations one better, and her ventriloquiai work capped the climax. Very good.

Lee Morgan and Beryl Greay in "Every Day in the Year" have a delightful sketch of commiters' life, worked out by the master hand of Willard Mack, author of "Kick In" and half dozen other dramatic and comedy successes.

Bert Hanlon, singing and talking comedian of large reputation; the Flying Fishers, mid-air marvels in a wonderful aerial casting act; Romeo and Juliet in "A Monkey Romance"; and Miss Dorothey Granville and company in "Character Conceptions" complete the bill.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Sterling exchange ended the week as might have been expected, in a state of uncertain expectancy and suspended animation. There were practically no transactions; indeed, the two-day holiday, with Lombard street open for business Monday, and with so many possibilities in the air, was itself sufficient to discourage any attempt at doing business. On the stock exchange, though trading was light, the atmosphere of returning cheerfulness, which followed the midweek recovery in sterling, was distinctly perceptible. An undoubtedly favorable race about the market was the predominance of the standard railway shares. Practically all of these stocks advanced; reflecting the slackening of London sales.

War order stocks were neglected in an entirely reassuring manner; for the present, these jumping-jacks of the speculative market have been pushed to the back shelves.

FRIENDS SUPPORT DOCTOR'S WIDOW

Refuse to Believe That She Plotted Death; Girl Denies Improper Relations

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 4.—Mrs. Elizabeth Mohr's friends came to her rescue today. They asserted their belief in her innocence of the charge of plotting the murder of her wealthy husband, Dr. Franklin Mohr, and his pretty office girl and declared she had suffered frightful treatment at the physician's hands.

Mrs. Mohr was told time and again of her husband's conduct. But for the sake of her children and to save her family from disgrace she refused to consider a divorce action until a few weeks ago.

Then she began to fear that Emily Burger, the office girl who was automobile riding with the doctor the night he was fatally shot, had won his affections entirely, Mrs. Mohr's intimate friends said today. Inspired by jealousy and anger she wrote the letter to Miss Burger's brother-in-law, conveying a veiled threat against the office girl. This letter the police now regard as one of the most important bits of circumstantial evidence to support the story of three negroes, now charged with the doctor's murder, that they were offered $5,000 by Mrs. Mohr to kill both her husband and his stenographer.

Miss Burger, who is rapidly recovering from the bullet wounds inflicted by the physician's assassins, today issued a denial of Mrs. Mohr's statement that she was responsible for the estrangement in the Mohr family. She denied that her relations with the doctor had been anything but proper.

BARTLETT-HANSON

Miss Mabel Hanson, 1601 Farnum street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Hanson, and J. Charles Bartlett, 337 South Twenty-second street, son of Mrs. Ellen A. Bartlett, were married by Rev. H. G. PLAY FOR COLMAN CUP OPENS WITH QUALIFYING ROUND

Van Auken with Two Straight Victories to His Credit Is Favorite in Event

This is for blood.

George L. Van Auken has won the Colman cup at the La Crosse Country club for two consecutive years. Should he win it in the present tournament it will become his permanent property.

They're all against Van Auken, of course. If he wins, every man of them will lose his opportunity to acquire the trophy which has been the ambition of local golfers for thirteen years and which, in that time, has been won a total of twelve times by nine players, whose names are graven on the cup.

Beside Mr. Van Auken two contenders have held the Colman for two consecutive years: George W. Burton and F. H. Hankerson. It has been captured once by Robt. Gordon, Emil Neimeyer, Joseph M. Hixon, Frank P. Hixon, Augustus Tourtelotte, and P. M. Gellatt.

The play today was the qualifying round. There are about forty entries, of whom sixteen will qualify for the preliminary, which will be played next Saturday. The following Wednesday the semi-finals will be disposed of, and the finals will be played off Saturday, Sept. 18.

The Colman Cup contest begins the golf year in La Crosse, and much interest attaches to the event. With superb weather the attendance is good and favorable conditions warrant excellent scores.

"While "Bob" Gordon is considered the hottest contender whom Mr. Van Auken must meet, Frank P. Hixon is playing in splendid form and Fred Hankerson must be reckoned with.

Van Auken appears to be "fit" today and is prepared to make the winner play the game. Other contenders are hazarding no definite conclusions.

Van Auken and Gordon were among the last eight contestants in the state golf tourney at Madison.

TINY RED PIMPLES ON DAY OLD CHILD

Got Larger. Hair All Came Out. Cried Terribly. Could Not Sleep. Had to Walk Floor to Quiet Him. Used Cuticura and Now Well.

La Crosse, Kansas.—"When my son was one day old he began breaking out on his face in tiny red pimples that seemed to itch, as he was uneasy and couldn't sleep. The pimples got larger and changed to water blisters. They would break and run and cause new ones to break out until he was covered all over with a thick crust. His head was so bad we were afraid to wash it almost. All his hair came out. We kept him on a pillow for fear of breaking the blisters. Every time they broke they seemed to smart and burn, as he would cry terribly. The eruption disfigured the baby. We had to walk the floor with him to quiet him.

"When he was four weeks old I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Ointment. The first time I used them he slept better than he had for a long time. He is now, at the age of nine months, well." (Signed) Mrs. John W. Sutcliffe, June 30, 1914.

LAW AFFECTING MIGRATORY BIRDS TO BE ENFORCED

Department of Agriculture Issues Warning to Sportsmen on Approach of Season

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 4.—With the approach of the open season for shooting wild fowl, the United states department of agriculture is warning sportsmen that the federal regulations as amended October 1, 1914, will be strictly enforced. Some misunderstanding has arisen from the fact that the various state laws do not always conform to the fedaral regulations. This is regarded as unfortunate but in such cases the department must insist upon the observance of the federal regulations.

The department will consider any recommendations submitted in good faith for amendment of the regulations submited in good faith for amendment of the regulations, but will hold no public hearings thereon, nor will it amend the regulations prior to October 15, 1915. It is the purpose of the department to conform the regulations to the wishes of the majority of sportsmen so far as it can be done and at the same time give wild fowl the necessary protection.

Federal regulations divide the United States into two zones. Zone No. 1, the breeding zone, includes the States of Oregon, Idaho, Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and all states north of them. Zone No. 2, the wintering zone, includes all the states south of those named.

The regulations in Wisconsin prescribe seasons as follows:

Waterfowl, September 7 to December 1.

Rails, coots, gallinules, September 7 to December 1.

Shore birds—black-breasted and golden plover, jacksnipe, yellowlegs, September 7 to December 1.

Insectivorous birds protected indefinitely. Band-tailed pigeons, cranes, swans, curlew, smaller shore birds and wood ducks protected until September 1, 1918. Rails in Vermont and woodcock in Illinois also protected until 1918.

Shooting prohibited between sunset and sunrise; or at any time on sections of upper Mississippi and Missouri rivers after January 1, 1915.

Would Hardly Call It a Privilege.

"I noted a new meaning of the word 'privilege' the other day," said J. Fuller Gloom. "The article said it was a man's privilege to pay for a woman stranger's meals on short railroad trips. Personally I do not see, with the customary high prices on a dining car, how anyone could consider the paying anything more than an extreme effort."—Kansas City Star.

FANS EXPECT BIG THINGS OF SUNDAY GAME AT ONALASKA

Nelsons Meet Whitehall in Play to Decide Championship of Western Wisconsin

Not for many moons have the baseball fans of La Crosse and contiguous territory had a better prospect for real, tooth-and-nail baseball than that expected to be shown tomorrow at the Nelsons—Whitehall battle atOnalaska,which will be played primarily for the purpose of opening closing competition for the championship of Western Wisconsin. Whitehall has made a name for itself in its neighborhood, its prestige being undisputed.

And to make matters better (or worse for the Nelsons), Sid Jacques, old man of baseball of La Crosse and of late a professional player in the west, will do the hurling stunt for the northerners. Sid is said to possess all of his oldtime skill and ability as a speed artist.

The game is expected to resolve itself into more or less of a grudge fight, as the teams for years have been rivals. Whitehall defeated the Nelsons August 8 at home and for that reason fans are looking for a battle de luxe. Whitehall expects to send a goodly contingent with its team.

Sickles, head of the Nelsons' pitching staff this year, will start for the Nelsons with Childers catching. Houge will receive Jacques' shoots.

LOCAL PROMOTERS TO GET HEARING

Representatives of Kannia Club Will Appear Before State Commission September 15

Representatives of the Kannia club of La Crosse will appear before the state athletic commission Wednesday, September 15 at 10:30 o'clock, at the commission's offices, 519 Germania building, Milwaukee, for hearing regarding issuance of a state licensee for the conduct of boxing shows in La Crosse. It is thought that Promoter W. L. Kannia will be among those to represent the local club. Other clubs will make application.

It will not be necessary, the commission informs, for clubs applying for license to be incorporated or to hold a lease at the time of the hearing, as only one club from each town will be granted a license. However, applicants must designate the place wherein such boxing contests or exhibitions are to be held in order that the commission may determine if the location complies with the requiremen of th elaw.

M'LOUGHLIN AND WILLIAMS SURVIVE

Champ and Ex-Champ Come Through with Victory in Title Meet at Forest Hills

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Maurice E. McLoughlin, Pacific coast "comet," and R. Norris Williams II, national title holder, fought their respective ways through the semi-fanels in the national matches Friday afternoon. Williams was in much better form than the man who tennis sharps predict will opose him for the title next Tuesday. McLoughlin went badly off form in one set.

McLoughlin's scores against Frederick B. Alexander were 6-2, 6-2, 1-6 and 6-3. Williams defeated J. B. Adoue, Texas champion, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-1 and 6-0.

Eight survivors of the original field of 128 tennis cracks, remained today to continue the elimination process that will leave the two best to battle for the championship Tuesday.

A new spectre was today confronting the favorites—McLoughlin, the California crack, and Williams, the champion. It was diminutive William M. Johnston, another Californian, whose stock was soaring as a result of his brilliant victory over Karl H. Behr, veteran Davis cup player, late yesterday. Johnston displayed what judges termed the best tennis seen during the tournament, and won a lot of supporters. He will have stiff opposition today, however, when he meets still another Californian, Clarence J. Griffen. Johnston is a favorite in this match.

FORTY CARS IN TWIN CITY RACE

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 4.—With forty cars qualified and with fair skies, balmy weather and railroad officials all predicting one of the greatest automobile speedway meets, everything was in readiness for the start of the big race shortly after noon. Resta, in a Peugeot; Burman, in a Peugeot; Henning, in a Mercer, and Oldfield in a De Lage, drew the poles.

If we could see ourselves as others see us we would think there was something the matter with the looking glass.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Best Way to Make Coffee.

Take an iron tea kettle, pour in cold water to the amount required, put in coffee freshly parched and ground, set on fire and let it come to a boil slowly. After boiling about five minutes, take off, settle by pouring out a cupful and pouring back again, and then, in about five minutes more, your coffee will be ready—coffee for the gods.

FINAL PLAY STAGED IN GOLF TOURNEY

Gardner of Chicago and Anderson of New York Meet to Decide Title

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 4.—Robert A. Gardner of Chicago and Yale were to meet John G. Anderson of Mount Vernon, N. Y., on Saturday in the final match for the national amateur golf championship.

After a tremendous effort which enabled him to square his match on the thirty-sixth hole, Gardner on Friday defeated Max R. Marston of Springfield, N. J., on the thirty-seventh hole. Anderson won an interesting contest from Sherril Sherman of Utica, 2 and 1.

A heavy downpour of rain this morning delayed the start of the finals of the national amateur golf tournament and at mid-morning it looked as if it would be necessary for finalists to play the championship match in the rain.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

BY HAL SHERIDAN
(Written for the United Press.)

Walter Johnson and Al Mamaux both won yesterday, leading to the suspicion that everything is running true to form again.

The argument against that opinion is the undeniable fact that the Giants beat the Phils.

Evans and Chill—the well known bull-fighters—should be popular in Chicago today. They literally gave Cleveland a game yesterday through an oversight in calling a man out.

Not only did the Browns beat the Tigers but they added salt to the cut by doing it on a triple steal. That is Cobb's stuff.

However, Cleveland needs 'em and may be it was philanthropy. But we'd hate to umpire in Chicago any more were we Evans and Chill.

Buckingham Weaver of the White Sox and a gent named Malone of Mr. Connie Mack's used-to-be's binged the only circuit swats under the big tent yesterday.

The Braves crawled a step nearer the second place Dodgers and first place Phils by licking the former, while the Giants were whaling the latter.

Was Too Clever.

James Payn, the novelist, remarked of one woman who used to say the most brilliant things in conversation that if she had only devoted half the time she spent in thinking of them to considering whether the brilliant things would be in good taste and not arouse ill feeling, she would have been ten times more popular. As it was she was not voted a delightful person by any means.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Wheat was sharply lower today. The chief cause was lack of desire on the part of brokers to carry holdings over the double holiday in the face of big receipts prophesied for next week. Prices at the opening were down about 1 1-2 points from yesterday's close.

Corn also was down today. The wheat weakness was the chief cause. Prices were lower than yesterday's close by 1-4 and 1-8 at the opening. They closed at 70 7-8, 77 1-2 and 58 1-2, which represented losses from the opening of 7-8 1-2 and 3-8.

Oats held fairly firm today.

Provisions were active and slightly higher today.

AMERICA IS WONDERFUL SAYS CORRESPONDENT ON RETURNING FROM EUROPE

(By William G. Shepherd, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—When we dropped down the river toward the sea, from Liverpool, evening was falling. All about us were war ships. The great Mauretania, loaded with 8,000 Irishmen, their hearts still aching and their throats still hoarse from their good-byes, passed us, headed for the Dardanelles.

Workmen were thrusting long wooden arms out from the sides of our ship; at the end of each arm was a great electric light that threw its rays back against the hull of the boat. I looked down and I saw that the lamps were throwing their white light on the words, painted in giant black letters, "New York, America."

German eyes looked up at us from under the sea that night, beyond a doubt, for the Orduna, a boat that passed us, was almost torpedoed not a great distance from us. That rocking, rolling, electric sign helped me to discover America afresh. Under its charm we went our way, safe in the pathway of death. For a year I had seen nothing but war; I had seen everything go down before it and I had forgotten that there was one spot or one flag in the world that was safe. The thrill that comes from realizing under such circumstances that there IS one flag that is safe and that it is YOUR flag is almost overwhelming.

Eight nights later, on a summer Sunday evening, we approached New York. On our left the lights of the quiet Jersey villages began to blink. On our right the fiery outlines of old Coney Island grew brighter and brighter, as night deepened.

Standing on the deck Henry P. Davison, a partner in the J. P. Morgan firm, one of America's younger masters of finance, looked upon the growing glory of New York's evening sky line and said:

"There's no country like it in all the world."

That comes as near being an interview as Henry P. Davison ever gave to a newspaper man, but there will be many a time that he'll speak a thousand words and not say one-tenth as much.

You have been in London, and seen all the gentle, fine things of life forgotten; you have been in Berlin and heard nothing of good, but all of hate; you have been in Vienna and found its art and music put aside for war; you have been in Paris and found its beauties shrouded in black sorrow; you have been in Buda Pesth and found its glories blotted out by war; in Rome you had found war-mad men and war-mad women, instead of the happy Italians of other days. Everywhere you have been, it has seemed to you that the world had come to a standstill for war.

There Lies New York

And now, on this soft summer Sunday evening, here lies New York, its lights aglow, no Zeppelin horror hanging over it; music, art, home life, happiness—all the things that are dead in Europe—and behind it, thousands of miles behind its night-lit sky lines, stretches America, clear away to the Pacific, where your United States, in the midst of the world war, is celebrating the forgotten triumphs of civilization in the two California expositions. And it is your country. You have discovered America, with your heart as well as your brain.

Within a few days I was within the heart of the west. Everywhere I saw happy people, and I had been used to seeing only sad people. Everywhere I saw smiles, and I had been used to seeing only strained, unsmiling faces. Everywhere, everybody was busy. I heard talk, talk, talk, of busy, earnest men; I missed the hate that I had become accustomed to; I missed war; I saw none of its terrible mark. And every minute I thrilled at the thought.

Country Wonderful

"This wonderful, peaceful country is my country."

And I kept wondering why all those about me didn't thrill at the idea. But they all seemed to take it for granted. Americans, at home here, I discovered, see one side of the picture only. Most of them have not discovered America yet.

That this is a wonderful United States, worth fighting for and dying for, if necessary, is an idea that doesn't seem to have been driven home to Americans by the war in Europe. You need to have been in Europe, where men are fighting and dying for their countries, to realize what a short, easy and sudden step it might be to leave your daily business and step into an American army. You see a United States whose national welfare might, at any time, become supreme over your own personal welfare; a United States whose great history may sweep you out of your own little daily pathway from the home to the office and carry you off, life, fortune and all, on its resistless tide. That's a new kind of a United States, that this generation has not had to know.

Trying to read faces is interesting. But nothing is gained by studying the back of a neck in the street car. —Toledo Blade.

ALLEGED REALTY FAKER TELLS OF JOURNEY FROM ESCAPE TO RECAPTURE

LIVED ON APPLES AND CORN UNTIL WIFE SENT COIN

Man Wanted Here Tells of His Flight from Waukesha After He Is Brought Back

Locked up again today in the county jail at Waukesha, David Adler, whose numerous aliases include that of John W. Kline, under which title he is wanted in La Crosse and Winona for realty swindles several years ago, is awaiting the next turn of the wheel of his fortune, which has brought him from the position of a highly respected banker in an Arkansas town to a prisoner awaiting trial for alleged attempt to defraud.

Of his escape from the city limits of Waukesha to St. Louis Adler talks freely. Of all that happened before he scurried to cover in the underbrush on the afternoon of his escape, he says nothing. But the tale of his flight, ending in the shattering of his dream of living out the remainder of his days in quiet, is a story worth hearing.

Once out of jail, Adler and John Voltz hid in the underbrush until the first cry of the chase to recapture them had subsided.

After dark the started out again walking southeast to a point about six miles from Milwaukee. There they boarded an interurban for Kenosha.

74 Cents for Railroad Fare

To pay for the trip, they used the 74 cents that Adler collected while in jail. This money he secured from the sale of tobacco to other prisoners. The tobacco that he sold was supplied him by Sheriff John Sleep.

In Kenosha he mailed a letter to his wife, then in Arkansas, asking her to mail money to him at Chicago, through the general delivery. What name was used on that letter, he will not tell.

Throughout the succeeding day they hid in a cornfield, fearing to venture out even on the highway. They had purchased no food with the store of money at their command and subsisted on apples that they had gathered as they walked and on sweet corn stripped from the stalks about them. When night came again they started walking once more and din ot stop until Waukegan was reached.

Sell's Deputy's Revolver

There Adler stayed on the outskirts in hiding. Voltz went into the city alone and sold a revolver for $2.50. That revolver he had taken from Undersheriff David Robert, when the escape from the jail was made. Voltz rejoined his companion and the two then walked into a Waukegan restaurant and ate their first meal since leaving the Waukesha jail. An interurban carried them from Waukegan to Chicago.

There they waited until the following Wednesday, when the letter Adler was expecting from his wife arrived. The next day they bought two tickets to St. Louis and early on Friday following they left the train when it stopped at one of the St. Louis suburbs.

The waited there until Sunday for Adler's wife to join him and when she came he and Voltz parted company. That was Sunday afternoon. Voltz was given $25, good-byes were said and he started off alone. Just one and one-half hours lated Adler was in custody.

Greets Old Cellmates

When he was brought back to the Waukesha jail he greeted the prisoners cheerfully, shook hands with them and laughingly averred that he had merely been on a two weeks' vacation. Asked how he was to be entered on the jail register he laughingly answered:

"Oh, same old name. David Adler, Waukesha, Wis., 64 years old."

And that is how the record stands today.

According to Sheriff Sleep, Adler owns 640 acres of land in Arkansas and a beautiful home there. He is said to have property, too, in St. Louis and considerable cash. His wife, so the authorities aver, sold the stock in the bank of which he was an official, after his arrest last February.

ALLIES DAMAGE TURKISH BRIDGE

ATHENS, Sept. 4.—Under cover of darkness, the crew of a British submarine made a daring attack on the important Gebze railway bridge, twenty-six miles southeast of Constantinople, and succeeded in blowing up one of the spans. Dispatches received here today said the submariners returned to their craft without detection.

The exploit was credited to the same British submersible that has sunk several Turkish transports in the sea of Marmora and has bombarded the docks in Constantinople harbor. The submarine entered the gulf of Ismud at dusk, disembarked several of its crew with dynamite and then stood close into shore.

His Ears All Right.

Johnny is a little southern boy living in Texas with his grandmother, who is a little deaf. One day while he was playing she called to him several times, but he didn't answer. Finally she said: "Johnny, don't you hear me?" and Johnny says, "'Cose I heah you; my ears ain't lame."

Calling the wife of a mean man "his better half" is not very complimentary.

OLD TIME FIGHT WILL MARK RACE FOR THE SENATE

Political Prophets Unanimous in Belief That Gov. Philipp Will Run Against Senator Bob

GOVERNOR ALREADY AT WORK

Present Senator Will Be Here in a Week to Start Reading "the Roll-call"

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 4.—Political weather prophets here are almost unanimous in expressing the belief that Governor Emanuel L. Philipp will be a republican candidate for United States senator at the primaries next September. Some of his closest political advisors have already suggested his name in the public press and declare that sufficient encouragement has been given to warrant his entering the race. Meantime the governor plays the part of the "sphynx" and casual callers at the governor's office are not certain what position he will be a candidate for, or whether he will be a candidate at all.

When Senator La Folletet returns here from Washington next week it will be for the ostensible purpose of propping up his political fences. His friends say that he intends to spend six weeks making speeches in which he will explain the accomplishments of the recent legislature.

Should Governor Philipp be a candidate Wisconsin will witness an old time political battle, such as the state has not had since early in 1900, when La Follette unhorsed the "old guard" and placed the progressives in the saddle. That Governor Philipp believes in taking time by the forelock is indicated from the fact that he has abandoned his announced vacation to his farm in Washington county and has taken to the county fairs to explain the work accomplished by the last legislature. Not until Senator La Follette issues his first rejoinder will the nature of the campaign be known.

While here recently the senator spent much time analyzing the character of bills introduced in the last legislature noting the votes by out-and-out administration men on many of the more characteristic pieces of proposed legislation. When he goes on the stump it will be to read the "roll call," which he made historical in the state campaigns of 1901, 1903 and 1905. Not in the past ten years has Senator La Follette returned to Wisconsin exhibiting such vigor of health, and this at the end of a strenuous 100 days on the lecture platform in the south.

"FRECKLES" A BIG SUCCESS

The Broadway Amusement company will present Gene Stratton-Porter's "Freckles" at the La Crosse theater Sunday, Sep. 12, matinee and night.

There has been nothing produced in the history of the American stage just like "Freckles." It is distinctive and original, but of such absorbing interest that it is not difficult to understand why the millions of fiction readers have delighted in the story, nor why the song play has become so popular with all classes of theatergoers.

In his dramatization, Neil Twomey has kept faithfully to the text of Mrs. Porter's story; every character has been brought out in bold relief in the play, and where the picture was in the mind's eye of the reader, it is now in the actual line of vision.

The great Limberlost scene, in which Freckles has taken hold on life, is realistically shown. It is a beautiful stage picture with the thickness of the swamp forming a dark massive background below, while above tower gigantic trees.

The coming of "Freckles" will be a theatrical event just as it was an event in fiction; the song play is now as great a success as is the story and is playing to immense crowds everywhere.

The music for the play and the songs rendered by Freckles and the various characters are by the Viennese composer Anatol Friedland. It is said to be a novelty from a musical point of view and the songs among the most beautiful heard in a long time.
